Consistent monthly DQC meetings with active cross-functional participation

The DQC meetings at CRM-1 & 2, and LP Mills are being conducted consistently with active participation from senior members. Each session includes thorough, fact-based discussions covering minor operational issues, major quality concerns, customer requirements, and compliance actions.

The structured approach, depth of analysis, and cross-functional involvement clearly reflect strong alignment with TQM principles, continuous improvement, data-driven decision-making, and proactive problem-solving. These meetings stand as an excellent benchmark for how DQC reviews should be conducted across all departments: systematic, collaborative, and result-oriented.

LSSBB/LSSGB Project Review

As part of our continuous drive toward operational excellence, the TQM team successfully reviewed 42 Lean Six Sigma (LSS) projects this cycle. These projects reflect the organisation's commitment to structured problem-solving, waste reduction, and sustained process improvements across multiple functions. A key highlight of this review was the successful completion of a Black Belt project titled "Reduction of Specific Power Consumption in the J1 BAC Plant by Mr. Gulam Mustafa (Senior Manager)." Through a data-driven approach and cross-functional collaboration, the project team identified critical energy-intensive stages in the process and implemented targeted improvements and resulted in a substantial savings of ₹1.6 crore per annum, demonstrating both the financial and operational impact of Lean Six Sigma methodologies.

The project not only delivered quantifiable benefits but also showcased the disciplined application of DMAIC tools and strong stakeholder engagement. On successful validation and vetting of results, the project team was formally awarded the completion certificate, marking another milestone in our journey towards excellence.
